About my photograph:

Although I haven't had to make many hard decisions in my life, I think that I would take the road less traveled. The reason I would do this is because I like to be adventurous and explore new paths. One never knows where they will lead. My photo shows a path that has overgrown bushes and trees. The path doesn't appear to have been traveled on so for some it might be intimidating. However, if you go to the end of the path you will unexpectedly end up at a beautiful beach. This is just one reason why I would take the road less traveled.

“I like to be adventurous and explore new paths.”
